Nimit Jain
Organiser/Convenor

I have been a life member of The Delhi Association of the Deaf for more than three decades. At first, when I was not employed, and time hang on my Gauds, I took active part in the various activities of our Association, Specializing in funds Mobilization. My contribution to the Association was lauded.

After joining service, on to fire work Seft little time, as I had to work at home also. After my marriage, pressure of work increased so, I could do little for the Association.

A couple of years ago, I realized that as a Life Member of the Association I have duties to perform and help it carry on its various activates smoothly and economically.

I had observed the Badhir Yuvak-Yurati Parinay Parichaya Milan Sammelans that the Association had organized earlier. I felt this was one activity which was important and also beneficial to the deaf at large. Also, that will give me opportunities to meet numerous deaf girls, boys and their parents.

Therefore, I volunteered to organize the IVth Badhir Yuvak-Yuvati Parichaya Milan Sammelan and my offer was accepted. Also several senior and experienced leaders like Shri Lalit Thakur, Shri Krishna Kumar Sharma, Smt Geeta Petwal assured whole hearted cooperation and support. This embolden me and so. I set to work for the success of my first venture to wards shouldering responsibility and gaining practical experience.

My first step was to seek blessings of Muni Shri Jai Kumarji before start up. He was pleased to know of my undertaking whole excitedly and Eminently offered the facilities of Anuvrat Bhawan's Auditorium free of charges. This became a big moral booster for me.

Then I set out to work. Funds collection was my top priority I approached my friends and relations etc who gladly extended a helping hand. Though the funds collected were nothing I had to also approach the company for interment crow about, but being the first attempt, it was quite satisfying and rewinding.

The next was to look about for arrangement for seminar, e.g. publication of souvenir, arrangements at like auditorium, enrolling of volunteers, correspondence work relating to dispatch of circular, keeping of record of replies received, issue of appeals soliciting advertisement support, and so on Though it was the first effort, it was a good opportunity to learn on the ropes.

The experience gained has been most help full in making arrangements, collecting funds etc, for the 5th Badhir Yuvak-Yurati Parichaya Milan Sammelan and now if all things go well and God wills every year such Sammelans will be held.

This is so because such Sammelans meet one of the basic need of the human beings as a as a whole. For the deaf, meeting such basic need becomes an ordeal. Individually they can get to do this type of work. Patents may succeed some times but not always. Therefore such Sammelms are need and to meet this need. Association will do its best.

Before concluding I would be Fasching in my duty not to acknowledge the support extended to me in handling this assignment First of all, I thank Dr. (Smt) Shakuntala Dawesar and her husband Dr. Bhushan Kumar Dawesar who spent the better part of the dong with us.

Then to without the help and blessings of Muni Shri Jai Kumarji and Shri Ramesh Kanpal Sr. Instructor & Trustee of Anuvrat Bhawan, nothing could have been accomplished, Among the office bearers of the Association the outstanding role was played by sarva Shri P.N. Bahl, Shri Lalit Thakur, Vice Presidents, Shri Krishna Kumar Sharma, Honey Sports Secretary Shri Rajeev Goel Treasurer and Shri Rajiv Sharma and Shri Rajnikant Bansal Joint Secretary's Smt. Geeta Petwal Master of Ceremonies.

I thank them all and hope that I shall have the benefit of their unreserved assistance Finally all those who donated to our fund helped in securing advertisement support and worked as volunteers to make the function a success.

Finally, the parents and their progenies who turned up in huge numbers, deserve our full some praise for with out them there would not have been a Sammelan.

Thank You.

Deaf Rights Under UNCRPD

Delhi Association of the Deaf Organize Seminar to Focus Attention on the rights of the Deaf

(Recommendations of the National Seminar on "Deaf Rights under the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities" organized by the Delhi Association of the Deaf on 7th & 8th February, 2009 at G.B. Pant Hospital, Auditorium, New Delhi.)

Preliminary

Introducing the objective of organizing the Seminar, the organizers explained that in the Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunity, Protection of Rights & Full Participation) Act 1995, except for definition of deafness, there is nothing specific for the Deaf in it. Most of the provisions, which are applicable to all the categories of Persons with Disabilities (PWD), are no doubt applicable to the Deaf people also but they do need some specific provisions of their own in the Act without which these can not be enforced through a Court of Law.

In contrast, the Convention on the "Rights of The Persons with Disabilities" has certain clauses and sub clauses in its various Articles which are specific to the Deaf and, therefore, when enacted become enforceable through a Court of Law. This is the vital difference in the two.

As the Seminar was attended both by hearing and the Deaf, for the benefit of the later, the Seminar was divided into four sessions with the first session dealing with the basic Fundamental Rights guaranteed by the Constitution of India.

The second session was devoted to accessing, identification, intervention; curative as well as surgical intervention in the Deafness related issues. Speakers, professors from Maulana Azad Medical College, gave related information lucidly, capable of being understood by the Deaf people. The hearing persons also gained an insight in the above mentioned aspect of deafness.

On the second day, in the third session, Legal Luminaries explained the merits and demerits vis-vis Deaf people in the PWD Act. It was very informative.

The fourth and last session covered the various aspects of the U.N. Convention on the Rights of the Persons with Disabilities, closely examining and explaining the benefits that would accrue to the Deaf people. Panelists led by Dr. (Mrs.) Vaishna Narang, Professor of Linguistics, Jawahar Lal Nehru University, threw light on the clauses of the Convention beneficial for the Deaf people.

Simultaneous Sign Language Interpretation was arranged with the help of expert interpreters, with whose help the question answer part of each session was very interesting as numerous searching questions were posed and answered in very lively manner.

The following recommendations were being made on the basis of U.N. Convention under reference.

Recommendations

Right to Early Identification

Every child has an inherent right to early identification of deafness.

To this end the Governments at Centre and the States must ensure that adequate scientific arrangements are made at panchayat level, all over the country, either free of cost or at highly subsidized, affordable rates.

Government should dovetail the immunization programmes like pulse polio, across the country at regular intervals with the early identification of deafness in a child.

Right to early Intervention

Since an early intervention can minimize the impact of deafness, every child is entitled to the earliest possible intervention, both in the matter of taping existing residual hearing through audio-logical and in speech development through proper education suitable for a child of tender age, born Deaf.

For both these interventions, there are two options:

Audio-Logical Intervention

It is often argued that mechanical sound input does not always suit a tender aged Deaf child who becomes uncomfortable and finds it difficult to tolerate it. Therefore, some say that the issue should be settled keeping in view the deaf child's response to the audio-logical intervention.

The opposite side bats for audio-logical intervention on the plea that child would soon become accustomed to it and that it is the best way of speech development and development of linguistic skills.

After debate, taking pros and cons in to consideration, the Seminar recommends that depending upon the favourable or unfavourable reaction from the child to audio-logical intervention, the matter may be decided upon the response of the deaf child.

Parental objections, which would be numerous, should be politely over come through persuasion.

In so far as speech development is concerned, there also being two classes of thoughts, the Seminar recommends that Government, in keeping with interests of the Deaf Child, as also to appease the parents who may also be holding different views, both the methods viz oral as well as visual, must be provided during the period of early intervention in an appropriate environment conducive to the child's physical and mental development with the provision that final decision in the matter would be taken keeping in view the ability and aptitude of the child.

It has, however, to be kept in mind that a child born deaf begins to understand signs early in life, as being unable to hear, Deaf child can not learn the spoken language. Instead, he/she focuses on the signs and gestures which he/she keenly follows and starts to understand and use these. That is why sign language has been called the mother tongue of those born Deaf.

Right to Education

Right to education is a Fundamental Right and Deaf are no exception. In fact, they need the education the most because without formal education, they can not learn any language, not even their mother tongue.

Sadly, Education of the Deaf has been made a matter of experimentation and the Deaf used as guinea pigs. There are several classes of thought, each sticking to its guns. In addition to the oral and visual modes, there are others, total communication, use of signs and other modes of communication, also Indian Signing System.

Seminar, taking all these in consideration, recommends that the State must narrow down these several options into two Oral and Visual and arrange for the education of the Deaf children accordingly, in an appropriate environment.

As per the U.N. Convention under reference, sign language is like any other spoken, written languages and therefore, must be recognized, promoted and propagated. The direct impact there of will be felt by the Governments at States, and Centre will have to abide by this direction.

That being so, sign language must be made the first option for using as medium for instruction for the deaf.

Since oral system too has its merits, it also can not be ignored.

Therefore, the Seminar recommends that special school for the Deaf, based on sign language, should be allowed to co-exist with the special school using oral method of instruction.

However, the choice for one or the other alternative must be left to the ability, aptitude and inclination of the deaf child. Weightage can be given; to the views of parents of the Deaf child.

Mode and medium of instruction thus settled, the other requirements for infrastructures and manpower have to be tackled.

To this purpose Seminar recommends constructing, opening and running special schools for the Deaf in large numbers.

There should be adequate numbers of special schools based on sign language as well as oral system of education.

The Government must create facilities for man power development on a larger scale so that the growing need for teachers of the Deaf and associated service providers can be met.

Education to the deaf must be provided free, also text books and study kit along with uniform must be provided free of charges.

Vocational training in modern and sophisticated technologies must be given to the deaf, instructor for the Deaf must be trained at Government expenses and posted in the special schools for the deaf.

In addition to free education, books, education kits, uniforms, Deaf students must be given scholarships as well.

Since the deaf are thinly scattered over vast rural areas, the State and Central Governments must open a special school for the deaf, each using visual as well oral systems of education, at a central village and deaf from other neighboring villages brought to these schools and taken back to their school on vehicles provided and maintained by the Government, complete with a driver and conductor.

A nominal fare, if it becomes necessary, may be charged.

The Governments must open Secondary, Senior Secondary Schools for the Deaf at least one in each of the major towns in the State.

There must be one college of graduation level, for the Deaf in each State preferably located in the State capital, which must be up graded as demand increases for higher level education.

Integration of the deaf children in mainstream educational institutions should be attempted after the child has acquired linguistic skills equivalent to that of a hearing child of V standard, and for the first year, extra care to be given to the deaf child, transferred to integrated school.

Man Power Development

In order that the long neglected education of the Deaf takes wings, adequate man power will have to be trained and made available. To this end, State and Central Government will open a large number of Training Institutes for Teachers of the Deaf.

Rehabilitation Council of India (RCI) will, with the help of NCERT or on its own, develop new curriculum, syllabus, course material and make these available to the Training Institutes for Teachers of the deaf.

It will also ensure that quality of training remains of a high standard through regular inspection, checks and controls.

Accreditation will only be granted to such of the Training Institutes for the Teachers of the deaf which have attached special schools well equipped and well staffed with trained teachers of the Deaf and accreditation will be periodically reviewed.

Teachers of the Deaf will have to learn right type of indigenously developed Indian Sign Language and use it when ever and where ever required.

RCI shall ensure and also lay down the norms for teachers for the Deaf and ensure that in graduation and post graduation level training courses for teachers of deaf (special educators) sign language will be an integrated part of training.

The States and the Central Governments shall ensure that the teachers of the Deaf are paid attractive salaries, given adequate opportunity for career advancement, housing, proper work environment, financial aid for their children's education in the schools for hearing children, better retirement benefits, institute special awards exclusively for the teachers of the Deaf, special increments for good performance and dedication to their work and other benefits that are available to the teachers of hearing children, like 2 years extension in service period and so on.

Only then, this profession will attract the best talent to the advantage of the Deaf students.

In recruitment to the post of teachers for the Deaf, preference will be given to those who are either children of the deaf parents or the members of their families.

Government shall incorporate compulsory paper on special education for all B.Ed., M.Ed. Course for regular teachers also.

Sign Language

The U.N. Convention on the Rights of the Persons with Disabilities has equated sign language with other languages and State & Central Governments will have to do so, that is recognize sign language as any other language used in the country.

U.N. Convention clearly states in Article 21(e) and calls upon its Member States to "Recognized and Promote Sign Language for dissemination of information, expression of opinion etc." Therefore, Governments at the State and Central level must fall in line and recognize and promote indigenous sign language.

But there is a rub. That is, what currently goes under the name of Indian Sign Language and is used for Training interpreters for the Deaf is actually a part of thesis of a foreigner for her Ph.D degree obtained from Germany, it is learnt.

As will be confirmed by the Member Secretary RCI, this sign language was approved for training the interpreters for the Deaf sight unseen by the Experts Groups merely on the assurance of the then Director of NIHH.

Therefore, there is an urgent need to give India a sign language which reflects country's culture, philosophy, diversity, customs and practices, habits and behaviours etc and is capable of being understood equally all over the country and capable of meeting their Domestic, Educational, Training, Professional, Cultural, Religion, Recreational etc needs.

The Seminar, therefore, recommends that this need for such a language be met expeditiously.

In this context, it is worth mention that Delhi Association of the Deaf which the writer had the honour to represent and was a Member of the Working Group constituted by the Planning Commission, on Empowerment of the Disabled during the XI Five Year Plan Period, had submitted a detailed Project Report for setting up an Indian Sign Language Academy to which the entire gamut of sign language related work could be transferred.

This proposal was unanimously approved first by the Sub Group on Review of Policies & Programmes of the Government, then by the entire Working Group and recommended an initial out lay of Rs. 8 Crores for its implementation. Similar Project under the name "Sign Language Training & Research Centre finds a place in the Vision Statement for XI Five Year Plan of the Planning Commission, even though it has not even been conceptualized.

Therefore, the Seminar strongly recommends whether as Indian Sign Language Academy or as Sign Language Training and Research Centre, it must be established during the XI Plan period, made functional and the entire sign language related work be taken away from NIHH and given to the newly created Sign Language Training and Research Centre or Indian Sign Language Academy.

This done, a well chalked out programme, decided in consultation with the stake holders, the Deaf, should be taken up for promotion and propagation of Indian Sign Language.

U.N. Convention's Article 21(3) (b) clearly lays down that facilities for learning of sign language and the promotion of linguistic identity of the deaf community will be ensured. It is now the duty of the Government which has signed and ratified the Convention to ensure that this provision of the UN Convention is implemented in letter and spirit.

Sign Language finds a mention at several places in the UN Convention under reference. This shows that great importance is attached to it. In fact, this is the basic need of the Deaf people and therefore, the Seminar recommends that it be met speedily and effectively.

Right to Access

Seminar welcomed the efforts of the Government in creating barrier free environment, though minuscule, but lamented that these efforts were restricted to removal of physical barriers only. The sensory barriers, being invisible, have not been given the least attention.

That this should be so, when while the physical barriers separate human beings from physical objects, the sensory barriers separate persons from persons. These invisible barriers may have fatal results, as in the case of a deaf suffering from life threatening disease, is unable to express himself and can not tell the attending doctor about his ailment.

Therefore, the Seminar recommends that the sensory or invisible barriers should also be removed to provide access to services and attention that may be needed by the Deaf by making services of interpreters for the Deaf available at least in hospitals, law courts, police stations and at all places where public dealing is involved.

To bridge the chasm between the deaf and service providers, Seminar recommends that qualified and trained interpreters of the Deaf should be posted at Government expenses, where ever their services are needed.

Signage, in national as well as regional languages, must be provided where ever necessary particularly at Railway Stations, Bus Terminus, Airports etc.

Right to Training

The Deaf need pre-employment training in trades and crafts and have a right to access training facilities, as per the provisions of PWD Act, also UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

Therefore, the Seminar recommends creation of adequate training facilities for the Deaf, that too on a large scale and as soon as possible, because the existing facilities comprising of just three training centers for the adult Deaf in the whole of India are woefully inadequate.

Government should, apart from setting up on its own training facilities for the Deaf, must assist NGOs to create additional training capacity.

The training to the Deaf should be free, during training period, the Deaf trainees should receive stipend, also kits for use during practicals.

Training should be in modern, sophisticated technologies.

Instructors in the training centre should be well versed in sign language.

After completing training with in the training centre, they should be given on the job training in good establishments.

Three percent seats should be reserved in all ITIs, one percent in I.I.T. and Polytechnical Institutes, for the deaf.

During training period, visits of trainees to various industrial centres should be organized on regular basis to familiarize them to the industrial environment.

Training centres should have an environment conducive to learning and experimentation with new technologies.

Right to Work

Like others, Deaf are also entitled to access the Right to Work, which is also a fundamental right.

The Vocational Rehabilitation Centres for the Physically Handicapped and Special Employment Exchanges for Physically Handicapped can play a pivotal role in implementing the Right to Work and so need to be strengthened further.

NGOs can also help in this regard and therefore, these too need to be involved in this work.

All poverty elevations programmes should give equal opportunities to the Deaf also for working on projects undertaken by them.

Where ever possible, cottage and home industries be started to create work opportunities for the Deaf.

Rural areas and agriculture have tremendous potential for work and these should be taped in meaningful manner.

Those deaf engaged in hereditary trades should be exposed to the latest developments that have taken place in their respective fields by organizing for them site visits.

Village Panchayats and Block level establishments should be made responsible for ensuring that Deaf work at their profession in rural areas without let or hindrance.

Employment

Though one percent reservation is available in Government and Public Sector Units for the Deaf but these largely remain unfilled for want of deaf with the designated qualifications.

Private sector, barring small establishments, generally do not employ the Deaf because of communication barriers.

To remedy this situation, the Seminar recommends.

Special recruitment tests should be held exclusively for the Deaf for selection as LDCs in which papers are set keeping in view the poor linguistic skills, and answers evaluated keeping in view the same fact--viz their poor linguistic skills.

Before appearing for competitive tests, facilities for pre-test coaching should be provided to the deaf, free of charges.

At interviews, services of interpreters must be provided at the cost of the party calling deaf for interview.

Under the Apprentice Act, Deaf should be given training and after apprenticeship period, placed on the regular roll.

The list of posts identified for placement of the Deaf should be reviewed periodically and new categories added where ever necessary resulting either from introduction of new equipment or new training courses for the deaf or technologies.

Posts reserved for the Deaf should not be de-reserved but carried on till suitable candidate qualifies for it.

Vacancy and posting rosters must be maintained on the lines of those for S.C./S.T.

By liberalizing loan norms by NHDFC, making procedure borrower friendly self employment or employment through co-operative societies must be encouraged and assisted.

Deaf should also get their share of jobs in various rural development, poverty removal programmes of the Central and State Governments.
